Conclusions

- The trajectory of STTI /ANF scholars provide a focused snapshot of the development and evolvement of research that has influenced healthcare policy.
- The track record of STII/ANF Scholars with regard to the continuation of their research with NIH and other funding and impact on health care policy is noteworthy.
- These exemplars are a testimony to the value of seed money for nursing research and their ultimate contribution to nursing science.
Conclusions

- Only two STTI/ANF scholars were international with both from Canada.
- One STTI/ANF is at the University of Cairo.
- The recipient for the 2012 STTI/ANF grant is from Hong Kong and focusing on Chinese Americans’ view of physical discipline.
- ANF (When a study involves human subjects, IRB approval from a US university or agency or country of origin is required; if applicable, from each site where the study or portions of the study will be conducted).
